

Sarah Gaudoin

Sarah Gaudoin is a media artist and dancer who has performed with PacRep many times, and has more recently joined the SoDA teaching team. Her very first job was teaching at Dance Arts in Salinas, and she also taught dance and photography at Notre Dame High School. She enjoys working with all ages; learning has no age requirements. Through her own education (BA, Cinematic Arts & Technology, CSUMB) and freelance filmmaking experience, she determined that her passion is nurturing the dreams and ideas of others into becoming a reality. This focus has applied well to teaching: Sarah has directed filmmaking camps in collaboration with Thomas Farm Films for the past three years, and the films she helps the students create have won multiple film festival awards. She feels that the most important aspect of a teaching environment is guiding students to be confident and independent knowledge seekers.
