

Kacie Devaney

WRITER, INSTRUCTOR

Kacie Devaney is the founder of Kreation, a theatre, and film company based in Paris, NYC, and LA. A writer and multi-disciplined artist with a passion for travel, Kacie's Kreations aim to inspire, expose, make you question and think! Her works champion WOMENS stories and the forgotten stories of all those who have impacted our world in a positive way and fought for equality and change. Ms. Devaney's original works have been featured in illustrious theatres and Festivals in NYC including, The HERE arts center, The International Fringe Festival, The Mark Morris Dance Center, The Robert Moss Theatre, Gibney Dance, The Producers Club, The Tada Theatre, and the Barrow Group, (to name a few). Her plays and dances have been nominated for (Best Production), (Best Story and Writing) & (Best Choreography.) She continues to work closely with NYC industry professionals Stephen Singer and Julie Voshell. In LA, she works closely with prominent Hollywood producers, writers, and show-runners. In Paris, Kacie taught acting for the camera at the highly respected, Bilingual Acting Workshop founded by long time industry activist for the arts, Amy Werba. Kacie also offered and continues to offer one on one acting coaching and consultation to French artists looking to break into the New York City and LA scene, along with acting and movement classes to businesses and Universities. Last year, she turned her play The Great Forgotten into a tv series and is currently working with a handful of industry leaders working to get it on a network— notably, HBO and Netflix. Contact Kacie to learn more about her work and for future collaboration!